

NUBIA

Nubia combines the talents of Letoya, Samantha, Juanita and Nonhlanhla - four versatile, experienced and popular vocalists, who each maintains successful solo careers in the South African music industry, with great demand for their performances.

This unique group brings together the diverse styles of the four songbirds in a project which has proven to be extremely successful in the corporate entertainment environment. Nubia's repertoire features unique arrangements of contemporary and light pop covers of well known songs which, combined with elegant costuming, quirky dialogue, clever staging, and of course the awesome vocal talents of the girls, contributes to a product which is fresh, original, sexy and extremely entertaining.

Nubia's playlist includes: "Here comes the sun / Dream a little Dream / Say a little Prayer", "Fire", "Man, I feel like a Woman" (Shania Twain), "I can't make you love me" (Bonnie Rait), "Habanera", "Wintergames", "Come Together" (The Beatles), "It's raining Men", "If you could read my Mind/River Deep, Mountain High", "Sister's are doing it for themselves", "Baby, you can drive my car", "Lady marmalade", "1000 miles", "Objection Tango" (Shakira), and many others